The sections are classified in the following way: Writing Ability Module, which consists of three sub-sections each consisting of 15 questions. The first subsection controls clarity. There are two suggestions given and the tester must determine which one is written correctly. You should look for common writing errors, such as vague references, incorrect modifiers, sentence segments, and execution suggestions. The second sub section checks the spelling. There is a sentence where one of the words is omitted and four different spelling options are provided. You must select the correct spelling. The third subsection tests the vocabulary. A given word in the sentence is underlined, and you must select the most exact synonym or definition from the four options. Readability segment, consisting of two sub-sections. The first part is a reading comprehension test with 20 questions. You must read a given text, which can have a paragraph or page, and then choose the correct answer from the multiple-choice questions. The second subsection is a cloze test and covers forty elements and consists of paragraphs where the first and last sentences are complete, but every seventh word in the other sentences is omitted. You have to guess what the missing word is. The position of the word is indicated by dashes and the number of dashes corresponds to the number of letters in the word. There may be more than one matching word in the box and it is accepted as the correct answer. Reasoning Capacity Department, which consists of 16 multiple-choice questions. You must choose the best answer based on the facts provided in the text. As a tester, you must specify patterns, relationships, sorted series of events. Note: always answer questions based only on specific information and not on the basis of your general knowledge or personal opinion. Opinion. PELLETB is rated electronically based on the T score. Any score below 40 is considered to be below average, while any over 60 is considered to be above average. You need to score 42 or more in order to pass the PELLETB successfully. Note that the exam contains research questions that do not contribute to the final score. As a tester, however, you do not know what these questions are and, therefore, it is recommended that you answer all the questions, even if you have to guess the answer for some of them. The score applies to life, so to say, which means it has no expiration term. If you move to a new segment, however, they are allowed to require you to repeat the test. If you have failed PELLETB or are unhappy with your result you can take it back, but you will have to wait 30 calendar days. Sample questions and tips to answer them If you want to get an idea what the PELLETB includes, you can check online for some sample questions. Perhaps one of the most useful documents you will come across is the applicant's preparation guide for the POST Entry-Level Law Enforcement Test Battery (pdf), which includes sample questions and tips on how to pass the writing and reading skill sections of the test. Here's an example of what kind of information you can find in it: Writing skill sample section questions Here's an example of the questions you should answer for each of the writing ability sub-modules. Clarity - there are two suggestions and you have to choose, which is the most clearly written. Bullet fragments were collected from police officers in envelopes. Bullet fragments were collected in envelopes by officers. The correct answer is 2, since 1 uses an incorrect modifier. The way in which the proposal is written applies that the officers themselves were in enclosed. You can prepare for this part of the test by learning about modification, reporting, suggestion sections, and execution suggestions. These are the kinds of wrongs you will encounter in this sub-section. Vocabulary - there is an underlined word in the sentence and you need to find the best synonym or explanation of the four options below. The police exude the suspect. caught isolated arrested released The correct answer is 2. Caught inside to seize or trap, isolate the means to isolate, capture means to seize or bring into custody, release means letting go. Spelling - you must select the correct spelling of the missing word. It wasn't _____ who committed the crime. apparent aparent aperant The correct answer is 1. So much for vocabulary sub-sections as well as spelling modules, there is no suitable material that can be studied by potential testers. There is no list of the most common words or anything like that, however you can expect words related to law enforcement and police reports. There are a few tips that can help you both with recognizing the meaning of a given word and spelling it. You need to know. Learn. more common word roots, prefixes, and adjectives. They can give you an idea of the meaning and help with spelling. Another thing to pay attention to is the formation of the plural for nouns. In most cases you add an s, but be careful if the word ends with a consonant and y, for example. In addition, there are words with foreign origins that form plural in different ways - for example - the analysis is the singular and the analyses are the plural form. Reading skills section sample questions There are two sub-sections, which contain two different types of questions. The first part consists of multiple choice questions, while the second is a cloze test. Here's what to expect. Multiple Choice Questions The case of Gideon v. Wainwright, decided by the Supreme Court in 1962, granted the court-appointed lawyer to individuals accused of felonies who could not afford to pay for their lawyers. In a more recent case, the Supreme Court ruled that the right extends to persons charged with any crime for which prison is a possible sentence. According to these court rulings, the defendant may waive his right to be represented by a lawyer in the trial, but the state must at least allow the defendant to have a free lawyer. Based on the above quote, which of the following statements is more correct with regard to defendants who cannot afford a lawyer? Anyone who has to appear in court has the right to a free lawyer. Anyone whose charges can lead to jail must have a lawyer representing him at trial. Anyone charged with a felony must have a lawyer present for his or her trial. Anyone charged with an offence that could lead to jail should have the choice of a free lawyer. The correct answer is 1 because it states that anyone who has to appear in court has the right to a free lawyer, while the text states that persons accused of any crime for which prison is a possible sentence have the right to a free lawyer. The best strategy for this sub-section is to read the questions and possible answers first and then focus on what they are looking for when reading the test. Read the questions and all options carefully before giving an answer. Use only the information provided in the text to give an answer and not your personal opinion. In this section you should provide the correct words for the spaces left in a text. Note that there may be more than one correct answer. If the word has the same number of letters as the dashes and fits the text semantically and logically, it will be considered correct. An example of such a suggestion is: The driver was injured when his 1) _____ crashed into the tree. The possible answers here are car and bus and both will be accepted as correct. The length of the missing words in the text will vary. Here is an example of such a cloze test: The juvenile justice system meets many types of people. Here's an example. Maria was 15 when 1) _____ she was arrested. Mary was a popular girl. 2) _____ the time of her first arrest. 3) _____ was good at school. According to 4) _____ teacher, it was a hard job 5) _____ and made excellent grades. Mary also had 6) _____ good attitude to school. Mary lived with her parents 7) _____ a middle class neighborhood. The correct answers are: 1 she, 2 in, 3 she, 4 her, 5 student, 6 a, 7 in Pay attention that the word you think fits the text actually has the same number of letters as the dashes mentioned in the empty space.
